INDEMNITY FOR SCHOOL LANDS. Important Decision Affecting Many Cases in

Western Indian Reservations. WASHINGTON, Sept. 24 .- The acting Commissioner of the General Land Office has granted a motion to review the decision of Commissioner Stockslager of Feb. 23, 1889. in which indemnity for school lands in the Siletz and Grande Ronde Indian reservations was refused. The law granting the school lands to Oregon provides for indemnity in cases where the lands are sold or otherwise isposed of. Acting Commissioner Stone holds that the sixteenth and thirty-sixth sections, which lie within the boundaries of the two named reservations, are disposed of within the meaning of the law, and follewing the decision of Secretary Lamar in the case of Colorado, he holds that the State has the right to select other lands in place ang Commissioner Stone, in closing Acting Commissioner Stone, in closing his decision, says: "It is clear there is an apparent conflict in judicial opinions as to the effect of certain school sections being within Indian reservations at the time of the taking effect of the grant. I think the weight of opinion is that a reservation for Indians is a disposal of the land in the meaning of the act. Whether I am right or not on this point, I feel safe in following the opinion of the Secretary of the Interior in the Colorade case. The facts in that case are similar to these, and I therefore revoke the decision of Feb. 23, 1389, and hold that the State of Oregon has the right to select indemnity for school sections lying within the Siletz and Grande Ronde Indian reservations. As to all other questions touching the selection and the lists, they are reserved for proper action ander the law when the lists come before the department for approval."

This decision is regarded as important, as it will govern in all similar cases, of which there are a large number in the West.

MINOR MATTERS.

President Harrison Makes a Trip Into the Wilds of West Virginia and Gets Wet. DEER PARK, Md., Sept. 24 .- President Harrison and Senator Henry G. Davis left here at 7:30, this morning, for Elkins, W. Va. The trip had certain elements of hardship, as it began and ended with a drive of thirteen miles over precipitous mountain roads and through one of the wildest sections of the country-the mountain region of West Virginia.

The party returned to Deer Park at 8:30 to-night, ofter one of the most stormy trips that any President of the United Stases has taken in the last quarter of a century. It rained constantly, and even the President's mackintosh and high rubber boots could not entirely protect him from a drenching. The party reached Elkins, W. Va., the terminus of the West Virginia Central road, about midday, where they spent an hour, taking their dinner in the private car "West Virginia."

To-morrow the President and Mrs. Har-rison, ex-Senator and Mrs. Henry G. Davis, and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Halford will attend the centennial celebration at Cumberland. They will leave here at 10 A. M., returning at 5 P. M.

Congressman Nutting May Resign. WASHINGTON, Sept. 24.—It was said at the Capitol, yesterday, that Representative Nutting, of New York, whose condition has been such for some months as to cause grave apprehensions of the issue, had stated to a friend that if he did not soon recover he would resign, so that the election of a successor could be had before Congress meets. Mr. Nutting represents the Oswego district, and his plurality in 1888 was about ten thousand over his Democratic opponent.

BURIED 108 HOURS.

Rescue of an Old Man, Who Had Been Imprisoned in Quebec's Landslide Over Four Days.

QUEBEC, Sept. 24.-At 9 this morning the laborers at work at the ruins caused by the recent land-slide heard a slight moan under a heap of wreckage, and, digging vigorously, soon reached Joseph Kemp. When extricated, Kemp. who is seventy-two years of age, was still able to speak, after having been buried 108 hours. Father McCarty administered the sacrament to the apparently dying man, Kemp answering to the prayer. Stimulants were administered, and hopes are now entertained that Kemp will recover. Intense excitement prevails, and the full force of city and river police have hard work to keep back the anxious crowd. Shortly after Kemp was taken out, the corpse of Mrs. O'Dowd, aged seventy-two years, was recovered. The body was badly mutilated. Mrs. O'Dowd was rocking a cradle and knitting a stocking when the avalanche of rock came down. She was knocked through a window and killed. When found her hand still held her knitting-work. The coroner's inquest into the cause of the death of the forty-eight victims who lost their lives in the disaster was opened this morning.

The evidence given at the inquest to-day tends to show clearly that the recent landslide could have been guarded against by properly repairing the cracks in the cuiff some years ago. A tremendous boulder, weighing several tons, was chained to the moutain-side with an inch chain, and an inch-board covering to hide other defects and the danger from the public.

OBITUARY.

Joseph Beale, Ex-Surgeon-General of the United States Navy.

PHILADELPHIA. Sept. 24. — Ex-Surgeon-general Joseph Beale, with relative rank of commodore, United States navy, died yesterday at his residence in this city.

Dr. Beale was born in Philadelphia, Dec. 30, 1814, and received his classical and medical education in the University of Pennsylvania, from which institution he graduated in 1836. He practiced his profession for one year, at the end of which period he entered the United States navy as assistant surgeon, and afterwards rose to the position of Surgeon-general of the navy, to which he was appointed in December. 1873. He was placed on the retired list in 1876.

The total damage by the storm throughout the whole area, including the city and beach, will aggregate $40,000.

How a Catastrophe Was Averted.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 24.—The startling information is made public that a great catastrophe during the national encampment was averted by a mere chance. The sleeping hillside at Juneau Park, where 100,000 people were seated on the night of the sham naval battle, was moved six inches. Had it not been for the stone road-bed of the railway at the foot of the hill, the whole side of the bluff would have slipped off into the lake, carrying the people with it. The ground at the bottom of the hill is bulged, and at the top there is a deep issure where the sod and earth have been torn part. Before the seats were erected many civil engineers had doubts about the safety of the bank, as much of it consisted CHICAGO, Sept. 24 .- Tsin Kuo Ying, the new Chinese minister to this country, passed through Chicago with his suite, on his way to Washington, to-day. The minister travels in state, his attaches and servants making a party of twenty-five. Through Mr. Lee, his interpreter, he denied that he had in charge a number of Chinese girls, the prospective brides of the attaches of the legation. "These are the only ladies we have," he said, indicating the minister's wife, a solid, blue-silk-costumed and blackeved little woman of about fifty, and her daughter, a miss of sixteen. Miss Ying is a petite young lady, with the blackest of hair and eyes, and a complexion that may

Great interest was manifested in this meeting, especially for ministers, and it was heartily indorsed.

Enlargement of a Plate-Glass Factory. Kokomo Gazette-Tribune.

A year ago the Diamond Plate-glass Company announced their purpose, on the completion of their present plant, with successful operation assured, to double their capacity. All the departments have now been thoroughly tested, with most excellent results, and the success of the enterprise is assured beyond question, and the company is making preparations for the construction of additional buildings at once. The foundation for another casting hall will be commenced within ten days. The monster building will be 180x 430 feet in dimensions, to extend east and west along the south end of the other buildings. Melting furnaces for the accommodation of twenty-four additional pots will be erected in the east end of this hall, with a double row of thir-ty-two annealing ovens, extending the full length of the hall. With the increased facilities afforded by these additions the ca-pacity of the plant will be increased from 4,000 square feet to 7,000 square feet per day.
About 200 additional employes will be needed to properly man the plant, and, all told, they will need no fewer than 700 men.
When these additions are completed the plant will be by far the largest, finest and best equipped establishment of its kind in the world. There is nothing equal to it on the world. There is nothing equal to it on either side of the water for magnitude, modern equipment, durability or appearance. Kokomo has abundant reasons for felicitation on the proud distinction of being the home of this vast industrial enter-

New Castle Determined to Have Gas.

special to the Indianapolis Journal. NEW CASTLE, Sept. 24.—The recent development of a plentiful supply of gas, by the local company, in a field eleven miles distant from this city, after persistent effort and numerous failures to secure it in the local field, has aroused the patriotism of the people who have come to the support of the enterprise, and New Castle will hereafter be numbered among the gas towns. The second well has been developed in the field north of this city, and the gas is assured; the only thing remaining to be done is to lay a pipe-line. After repeated failures in exploring for gas, and the consequent heavy expense incurred, it was a question of doubt with many whether or not the money necessary to put in the pipe-line could be raised, as $20,000 was required to complete the work. But those intrusted with the enterprise were agreeably sur-prised, when a stock subscription was started, to find the people ready and anx-ious to take stock. A subscription list was started on Friday night, at a meeting held in the court-house, and by noon to-day the entire amount was subscribed, and there was still a demand for stock. Work will be commenced on the pipe-line as soon as the pipe, which has already been ordered, ar-

Greencastle's Murder Mystery.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal GREENCASTLE, Sept. 24.—Additional light is being thrown on the mysterious murder and cremation, referred to in Monday's Journal, that points still more strongly to Alfred Bowen's connection with it. He was seen in this city on Thursday, the day of the old settlers' picnic, and the day following his discharge at Brazil. Thursday night he was seen at Mount Meridian, near the scene of the tragedy, by a shop-keeper, of whom he bought some crackers and cheese, and was heard in conversation with his supposed victim outside of the store immediately afterward. That was the night on which a fire was seen in the locality. The father of young Kibler is here from Jasper county, Illinois, and from the description given of Bowen's associate, his appearance. size, clothing, etc., is positive that the remains found in the ashes of the brush-heap are those of his son. He says the last he heard of him was at Springfield, Ill., on the 10th of August. Nothing can be learned of Bowen's whereabouts, or of his movements subsequent to the night of the 29th of August.

Eleventh Cavalry Reunion. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. PENDLETON, Sept. 24.—The sixth annual reunion of the Eleventh Indiana Cavalry, which closed here to-day, was the most successful the association has ever held. The attendance was larger than on the previous day, many being present from the surrounding country. One of the pleasing incidents of the reunion was the presentation of a handsome gold watch and chain by Maj. J. C. Hannum, of Delphi, in behalf of his comrades, to E. W. Collis, of this place, who has been their efficient secretary for the past five years, and was again unanimously elected to-day to serve for the coming year. The following officers were elected to serve until their next meeting: President, Maj. E. Shewalter, of Portland Ind.: first vice-president, R. H. Crowder, of Sullivan, Ind.; second vice-president, Capt. Sanford Sewell, of Greencastle; secretary, E. W. Collis, of Pendleton; treasurer, D. M Burns, of Lebanon, Ind. After a spirited, but good-natured discussion, they decided to hold their next reunion at Portland. Ind., in September, 1890.

The Dunsmore Murder.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CONNERSVILLE, Sept. 24.—The remains of Myrtle Green Dunsmore, whose corpse. with that of her young husband, was found last week at Windsor, Canada, were interred to-day at Bentonville, where her parents reside. The funeral was attended by a large concourse of friends. The particulars of the death of this young bride and groom leave no doubt, whatever, that they were murdered for the purpose of robbery, and the murder was certainly one of the most remarkable in the history of crime. Three weeks ago they left Bentonville a bride and groom. She had in her bosom $500 and he had about his person about $100. They had been gone but two weeks and, doubtless, still had much of their money left, when they met their fate at Windsor. They were found there in the Base-ball Park by one of the players when the park was opened for the game, sitting lifeless, side by side. The theory, that he murdered her and committed suicide is regarded here as nonsense.

Peculiar Accident.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. MUNCIE, Sept. 24.-Henry Rockaway, an employe at the Muncie nail-works, came near cutting his throat this evening while at work at the mill. In filling a furnace with heavy iron ore, which was placed on a long pair of tongs to put in the furnace, he fell against the sharp tongs with such force as to cut a three-inch gash one inch deep in his neck, just above the collar-bone, besides severely burning himself. His condition is critical.

Killed by Noxious Vapors.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal EVANSVILLE, Sept. 24.—A carpenter named Jefferson Irwin lost his hammer in the vault of a new out-house, to-day, and on going down after it was overcome by noxious vapors, and when found was past all recovery. The vile gases which killed him are explained by the fact that this spot was formerly a deep hollow, in which stagnant water stood the year round. Irwin leaves a wife and one child.

There were 950 feet of six-inch casing in the well at the time the strange and unprecedented accident happened. The driller ascribes the sinking of the casing to a probability that the drill struck into a subterranean cavern at the depth of 950 feet. Another remarkable occurrence was the appearance of a cloud of smoke at the mouth of the well immediately after the accident.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.-A rear-end collision on the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific railroad at Washington Heights, twelve miles from this city, at 6 o'clock to-night, resulted in the death of five persons and Circuit Court against Adam Forepaugh, claiming damages in the sum of $10,000 for the use of his name and lithographs in connection with the Forepaugh show when he severe injury to a dozen others. Following is a list of the killed:

The wounded are Gus Mulgahey, a boy, of Auburn Park, badly scalded, and will die; Edward Smith, jr., badly scalded from waist down. Mr. O'Connor, badly scalded; Daniel Lawrence, lawyer, badly scalded; Anton Schorer, badly scalded, taken to county hospital; Jacob Kuen, badly scalded; Mr. Wheeler, badly cut; Gottlieb Klein, scalded; Parker Heradas, cut while rescuing his sister; Mrs. Steele, slightly injured. Some of those injured are in a serious Some of those injured are in a serious condition, but it is thought that all will re-cover except Mulgahy.

Another account says: The 6:18 suburban train, on the Rock Island road, daily leaves at this point the Washington Heights coach, which a moment later is caught up by the dummy engine and hauled over the main line to Washington Heights. This evening the car was left at this point as usual, when a moment later the passengers were horrified to see in the rear of them. nd bearing down on them at the rate o twelve miles an hour, a heavy freight train of the same road. There was no time for flight. The engineer had reversed his engine, but the effect was hardly perceptible, and with almost undiminished speed the huge engine, propelled by the heavy train, plowed into the passenger coach until the locomotive was entirely hidden in the wreck. Wild shrieks and groans announced the horror of the disaster, and as the white steam formed in a thick cloud around the scene, the terrified spectators realized that the ill-fated passengers on the Washington Heights coach were being roasted alive. Willing hands lent all assistance that human efforts could render, but the engineer having failed to shut off the steam, the steam box was blown out by the shock, and the death-dealing vapor hissed forth ceaselessly for nearly an hour. Strange to say not a person was killed by the force of the shock, every life that was lost being solely attributable to the scalding steam that enveloped the coach. The dead, as they were taken out, were found to be literally roasted, the flesh dropping from the hands and limbs, and the glaring eyes told the horror of the experience that had welcomed them at the threshold of

The wreck appears to have been entirely due to the almost criminal carelessness of engineer Seth Twombley, son of the master mechanic of the road. The passenger train was running on time, the signals were out at the semaphore, and yet the freight train, regardless of time and signals, plunged into the passenger coach at the rate of twelve miles an hour-all within the city limits. The engineer reversed, but not until within a few rods of the passenger coach, and entirely too late to be of any avail. Both engineer and fireman leaped for their lives and escaped uninjured. Twombley at once took to flight and has not been heard from. It is stated that he was addicted to drink and the presumption is that he was intoxicated at the time of the disaster.

LOOSE IDEAS OF MATRIMONY. The Ease with Which Divorces Are Obtained Makes Marriage a Failure. an Francisco Call.

in many cases of divorce recently granted and now on the docket leads thoughtfu people to ask: "What are we coming to?" We do not know that the wives in a given number of cases are more blamable than the usbands, but it is the wives who suffer the most from such sundered relations. As a rule, they suffer more in their affections and in their reputations than the stronger sex. While there is something to be said in favor of a law of divorce which separates mismated couples, there is no condemnation too severe for men or women who enter the marriage state with the idea in their minds that if they do not like it they will take advantage of the law that allows them to escape. Yet there is no doubt that thoughtless young men and giddy girls often do approach the altar with that thought in their minds. In cases where the husband is very young the idea is apt to grow in strength as the years pass. He finds himself, while on the sunny side of thirty, with a wife who has possibly lost some of her girlish beauty, and children whose necessities absorb the greater part of his earnings. He compares the free and independent life of some of his bachelor associates, and imagination magnifies the pleasures he might participate in if he was unmarried. Some day the wife, who is ill-prepared to fight the battles of life alone, is stunned by the service of an aplication for divorce. Cases of this kind we regret to say, are not uncommon. Al most every one can recall one or more in his own circle of acquaintances. Of course, if the real reason were preferred in the application less harm would be done; but the remedy for them, as for most other evils, to his home on Kentucky avenue.

lies with the people themselves. The law is not so much at fault as the facility with which it is evaded. The church and society are too lenient in matters of this kind. It may be questioned if a man who divorced a wife for no other raeson than that he prefers to live single is injured in his busness or social relations by his act. If he has been a church member he still remains one. And yet he has committed the most cowardly crime a man can commit. A woman thus divorced, unless she have powerful friends, has no future, and children are thrown upon the world without the character and instincts of right which are inculcated in well-regulated homes.

JIM FISK'S FAVORITE. The Once Notorious Josie Mansfield Liviug

in Luxury at Paris. A private letter just received from a well known American anthoress now in says: "No end of people are talking about the American colony in Paris, and a good deal of gossip is not quite fit for the ears of the debutantes. It is a lamentable fact that the most interesting people are nearly always those who have gone of a shade in the moral scale. This morning, for instance, as I was coming out of the Bon Marche I noticed the eyes of a lot of French women turned toward a certain victoria drawn by two sorrel ponies and driven by a very correct-looking little English coachman. There was a snap and dash about the equipment which attracted attention, even in the city of superb turnouts. On the seat of the victoria reclined a woman in a well-fitting gown, with her gloved hands in her lusterless gray eyes. She was thin and apparently not in good health, but every detail of her attire from her little red boots to the tip of her well-fitting gloves was perfect. She raised one of her gloved fingers, beckoned a commissionaire to her, gave him an order in English, and resumed her languid pose in the carriage. Nobody knew her in the throng of Frenchmen, and I doubt very much if any Ameriicans would recognize her. When I saw her first I was quite a girl, and she was rolling down Broadway in a big barouche, behind Colonel Fisk's black horses. At that time Josie Mansfield was a big, volupt-nons looking woman, already talked about through the suicide of a man in California who was in love with her, and made notorious through the friendship of Fisk. After the death of Fisk she disappeared. and all sorts of rumors were affoat. One The frivolous character of the complaints New Jersey village, and the following day a sensational story about her sudden appearance in a Persian harem would crop out. On one occasion I remember I was down in a yacht cruise with my cousin, and we put in at Sag Harbor. There was a tremendous amount of whispered talk among the yachtsmen then about Josie Mansfield, and they pointed out the house where she was supposed to be living. It turned out, however, that during all this time she was living in Paris, and she is here still with a very comfortably furnished house and a good stable full of horses."

A Pretty Woman in a Rage.

Cincinnati Times-Star. In a Vine-street cable car, the other day. were an old gentleman with an ear trumpet and a very pretty young woman, accompanied by a little boy.
